

SLATE OF DIRECTORS

The Nominations Committee is responsible for selecting and presenting a proposed slate of directors to fill positions that are, or will become, available on the Board of Directors of North York Women's Resource Centre. The Board approved the proposed slate at its meeting held on August 1, 2023. The Board is presenting this slate to the membership of North York Women's Resource Centre during the Annual General Meeting of November 4, 2023 for election by those present. The new Board will take office immediately after the AGM.

The Directors make up the Board that governs NYWC with a mandate to pursue the purpose, mission and goals of the organization.

The following individuals are nominated for election to the Board for a first term

JOLIN JOSEPH

Jolin Joseph is a feminist researcher, evaluator, and facilitator based in Tkarón:to/Toronto. As the Manager of Research, Education and Knowledge Mobilization at YWCA Canada, she has been involved in strategic initiatives around gender-based violence, employment equity, and youth empowerment. Jolin is also a PhD candidate at York University. Her research centers migrant women and how they experience policies, precarious labour and migration status. Her community-based and academic work are grounded in a commitment to intersectionality and lived expertise as the basis for social change. She is also a firm believer in food as a catalyst for community engagement.